EXPLANATORY NOTE(This note is not part of the Order)

This Order amends section 68 of the Terrorism and Other Crime (Financial Restrictions) Act 2014 (“the Act”) in accordance with and in order to implement recommendations made in the Fifth Round Mutual Evaluation Report of the Committee of Experts on the Evaluation of Anti-money Laundering Measures and the Financing of Terrorism (“MONEYVAL”).

This Order is made under section 69A of the Act, which provides that the Council of Ministers may amend the Act in connection with the implementation of relevant international obligations or standards or the recommendations of international bodies. The definition of international bodies includes MONEYVAL. The definition of international obligations or standards includes the FATF Recommendations, against which MONEYVAL assessed the Island in order to produce its Mutual Evaluation Report.

In particular, Recommendation IO3 (Supervision) recommended that the Isle of Man Financial Services Authority (“the Authority”) make greater use of sanctions in severe cases. At present section 157 of the Act only provides for criminal sanctions to be imposed in respect of a contravention of a Code made under that section. The amendment contained in this Order will supplement that power with an ability to impose a civil penalty in the case of a contravention.

The amendments empower the Authority, after consulting any person or body that appears to it to be appropriate, to make regulations so as to require a person who has contravened a code to pay a civil penalty. Such regulations require the approval of Tynwald. A civil penalty cannot be imposed if criminal proceedings have already been commenced in respect of the contravention. The decision to impose a civil penalty may be appealed, on a question of law, to the Financial Services Tribunal. Any penalty received under the new provisions is to be paid into and form part of the General Revenue of the Island.
